Ruth wrote a PhD at Oxford and has taught undergraduates and graduates in King's College London so she knows what thesis struggles are like. Her background is in Classics, see her website www.ruthpadel.com but she has written on science, too, and is here to help in every subject, with

- structuring - essays, dissertations, articles, chapters, reports
- expressing your ideas more clearly
- sorting out grammar and punctuation
- making the most of your research
- techniques and tips on editing and proofing your work

She will not do your proof-reading for you! Nor teach EAP (English for Academic Purposes). Nor teach Creative Writing. What she does do is empower you. She helps improve your writing skills, the clarity and precision with which you set out your ideas.
